

What Are Zodiac Seasons and How Do They Influence Your Life?

You've probably heard people say things like, "It's Leo season!" or "Get ready for Scorpio season!" But what exactly are zodiac seasons, and how do they affect your life? These seasons aren't about changing weather but are tied to the sun's movement through the twelve signs of the zodiac. Each zodiac season comes with its own energy, personality traits, and themes that can influence everyone—regardless of your Sun sign.

Let's explore what zodiac seasons are, how they work, and how you can use their energy to navigate life more smoothly.

What Are Zodiac Seasons?

A zodiac season occurs when the Sun travels through one of the 12 zodiac signs, staying in each for about 30 days. For example, from around March 21 to April 19, the Sun is in Aries, marking Aries season. These seasons follow the astrological calendar and correspond to different phases of life, energy shifts, and cosmic themes.

During each zodiac season, the qualities of that sign influence not only people born under that sign but everyone. It's like the universe setting a mood for all of us to experience together.
